Steeves addresses controversy

'She did something in poor judgment.'

Mayoral candidate, under fire for wife's 2010 Facebook post, not dropping out of race

A candidate for the Winnipeg mayoralty said Tuesday he is staying in the race despite an ongoing controversy over his wife's comments about aboriginal panhandlers.

A handful of protesters heckled Gord Steeves at his first appearance since his wife's comments were brought to light last Friday.

brought to light last Friday.

"My wife was ... scared and angry, and she did something in poor judgment and she acknowledges that and she apologizes," the long-time city councillor said.

Last Friday an anonymous Twitter account posted a Facebook message from Lorrie Steeves from early 2010. Steeves wrote that she was "really tired of getting harassed by the drunken native guys in the sky-walks. We need to get these people educated so they can go make their own damn money instead of hanging out and harassing the honest people."

Steeves said his wife's 2010 Facebook post was written after she was threatened at least twice by panhandlers. In one case, he said, she and their two kids were approached by a large, inebriated man who raised his hands and made threatening noises. In another, Steeves said, his wife was alone and approached by three panhandlers for money.

"One of the panhandlers jumped up and put his finger in her face."

Steeves has drawn a lot of criticism on social media and websites. Some aboriginal leaders have said the comments are racist and reflect a not-uncommon suburbanite view of downtown aboriginals. But some members of the public have supported Steeves, saying his wife expressed a legitimate fear of panhandlers, regardless of race.

'As quickly as possible'

Faster permit process, vows Steeves

Before his press conference got bogged down over his wife's Facebook rant, mayoral candidate Gord Steeves vowed to streamline the permit application process.

Steeves said he'd increase the number of front-line staff accepting applications and reduce by 70 per cent the number of variances that automatically trigger public hearings by eliminating "nuisance" zoning bylaw regulations.

"The problem in Winnipeg and other cities is the speed at which we can process permits and get them to the proper people so that development can occur as quickly as possible," he said.

He also promised realtime online reporting of the statuses of the permits. BERNICE PONTANILLA/METRO

Monument honours lost women

The Forks. Granite statue a tribute to aboriginals who have been killed or vanished

Families of some of Canada's 1,200 missing and murdered aboriginal women laid tobacco at the foot of a new monument to their loved ones in Winnipeg at the Forks on Tuesday.

The two-metre-high granite statue, a project led by the Manitoba government, provides relatives a place to grieve loved ones who were killed or have disappeared.

"When you walk by, please take a moment to think about these women and their families," said Barb Houle, whose daughter Cherisse was killed outside Winnipeg in 2009. The 17-year-old's body was found in a ditch and her killer has never been caught.

"We'd like to raise awareness on this issue that's not only important to aboriginal people, but to society as a whole."

The monument, hourglass-shaped and humansized, is meant to represent a woman. There is an opening near the top that allows sunlight through.

"The light and the darkness pass through without judgment in an endless cycle. There is neither a beginning nor an end," said Nahanni Fontaine, a special adviser for the government aboriginal women's Aboriginal and Northern Affairs Minister Eric Robinson renewed his call Tuesday for a national inquiry into missing and murdered aboriginal women, an idea the federal government has rejected.

In May, the RCMP issued a detailed statistical breakdown of 1,181 cases since 1980. The report said aboriginal women make up 4.3 per cent of the Canadian population, yet account for 16 per cent of female homicides and 11.3 per cent of missing women.

Person of interest sought in disappearance

Winnipeg police have released a composite sketch of a man they'd like to interview in connection with the disappearance of a Winnipeg woman four years ago. Amber Rose Marie Guiboche was 20 years old when she was last seen on the evening of Nov. 10, 2010, near William Avenue and Isabel Street.

Investigators believe Guiboche may have gotten into a red truck that night.

New information led police to release a sketch of a person of interest in the case Tuesday.

He is a white man, roughly 30, with short hair that looked reddish from the sides. He has hairy arms described as being reddish or blond, facial stubble, and was possibly wearing prescription glasses at the time of Guiboche's disappearance. He was also wearing a faded green camouflage baseball hat. The man was driving an older-model red truck, possibly a Chevrolet, with bench seats.

Guiboche is described as standing five-feet-five tall and weighing 105 pounds, with a fair complexion, hazel eyes, a thin build, and long, straight brown hair often worn in a ponytail.

She was wearing a white Adidas hoodie with gold stripes down the sleeves, blue skinny jeans and pink skater-style runners at the time of her disappearance.

Perogy-eating world record smashed

When in Winnipeg. American winner Pat

'Deep Dish' Bertoletti shoved down 105 perogies in 4 minutes

SHANE GIBSON

Two behemoths of eating went head-to-head in Winnipeg Tuesday afternoon to finally determine once and for all how many perogies one man can eat in four minutes.

The stunt, held at Provencher Park as part of a crosscountry poutine-eating tour put on by Smoke's Poutinerie, pitted professional eaters (yep, that's a thing) Pat "Deep Dish" Bertoletti from Chicago against the reigning perogy-eating world champion, Furious Pete Czerwinski of Toronto.

Once the cheese, potatoes and dough settled, Bertoletti broke Czerwinski's previous record of 64 perogies in four minutes with an unsettling final tally of 105.

You have to go to your primal animal and eat like a complete barbarian," said Bertoletti of his technique in the competition. "It's not pretty.... We're not going to win any beauty contests while we're here.'

The event also saw amateur local eaters compete in a poutine-eating contest and all who came out to watch were treated to free poutine from Smoke's Poutinerie.

She was among the last of the old-fashioned Hollywood stars and her legend, and the legend of "Bogie and Bacall" — the hard-boiled couple who could fight and make up with the best of them - started almost from the moment she first appeared on

A fashion model and bitpart New York actress before moving to Hollywood at 19, Bacall achieved immediate fame in 1944 with one scene in her first film, To Have and Have Not.

Leaving Bogart's hotel room, she murmured: 'You don't have to say anything, and you don't have to do anything. Not a thing. Oh, maybe just whistle. You know how to whistle, don't you, Steve? You just put your lips together and

She was less than half Bogart's age, yet as wise and as jaded as him. Her sly glance, with chin down and eyes raised, added to her fame; she was nicknamed "The Look." Bogart and Bacall married amid headlines in 1945, and they co-starred in three more films, The Big Sleep (1946), Dark Passage (1947) and Key Largo (1948). Their marriage lasted until Bogart's death from cancer

She appeared in movies for more than a halfcentury, but not until 1996 did she receive an Academy Award nomination supporting actress for The Mirror Has Two Faces. She lost to Juliette Binoche.

She finally got a statuette in November 2009 when she was presented with a special Oscar at the movie academy's new Governors Awards gala.

"The thought when I get home that I'm going to have a two-legged man in my room is so exciting," she quipped.

China. Zoo announces birth of rare panda triplets

China announced Tuesday the birth of extremely rare panda triplets in a further success for the country's artificial breeding program.

The three cubs were born July 29 in the southern city of Guangzhou, but breeders delayed an announcement until they were sure all three would survive, the official China News Service said.

The mother, Ju Xiao, and the three as-yet-unnamed cubs are healthy, the news agency said. Photos showed the three sleeping and standing in their incubator, their bodies pink and mostly hairless. Ju Xiao was impregnated in March with sperm from a panda living at a Guangzhou zoo.

Ju Xiao was under round-theclock care for the final weeks of her pregnancy, according to the report. The triplets were born within four hours of each other.

The report said the triplets were only the fourth known set to have been born in the world through artificial breeding programs, but it wasn't clear how many had survived from such

Apparent suicide

Authorities say Williams was found by assistant

Authorities detailed Robin Williams' final moments Tuesday, saying the actor and comedian hanged himself with a belt in his San Francisco Bay Area home.

Marin County Sheriff's Lt. Keith Boyd said Williams was last seen alive by his wife Sunday night when she went to bed. She woke up the next morning and left, thinking he was still asleep.

Afterward, Williams' personal assistant came to the Tiburon home and became concerned when Williams failed to respond to knocks at a door. The assistant found the actor dead in a bedroom and called police. Boyd said all evidence indicates Williams took his own life. But he said a final ruling will be made once toxicology reports and interviews with witnesses are complete.

'I was shameful': Robin Williams on longtime battle with addiction

'It lays in wait.' Beloved actor and comedian was found dead in his San Francisco Bay Area home on Monday Addiction seemed to stalk Robin Williams, tempting him when he was weak and taunting him when he least expected it.

"It lays in wait for the time when you think, 'It's fine now, I'm OK,'" he told Good Morning America in 2006. "Then, the next thing you know, it's not OK. Then you realize, 'Where am I'? I didn't realize I was in Cleveland."

Williams, the comic whirlwind known for his hilarious stream-of-consciousness ramblings, was found dead Monday after the 63-year-old hanged himself in his San Francisco Bay Area home.

On film, he played everything from a genie to a psychiatrist. In life, he battled periodic bouts of substance abuse and depression, opening up about them to journalists with selfdeprecating wit and making his struggles fuel for his comedy.

"Cocaine for me was a place to hide," he told People in 1988. One of his first wake-up calls was in 1982 when fellow comedian John Belushi died of a fatal drug overdose. Williams briefly partied with the Saturday Night Live star the night he died and his friend's passing coupled with impending fatherhood forced the comedian to quit cocaine and alcohol cold turkey.

Sobriety lasted 20 years. Then the taunts became overwhelming again. He told Parade magazine in 2013 that his relapse after two decades of sobriety was frighteningly simple.

"One day I walked into a store and saw a little bottle of Jack Daniel's... I drank it, and there was that brief moment of 'Oh, I'm OK!' But it escalated so quickly."

Williams continued his recovery by attending weekly AA meetings. But his second marriage, to film producer Marsha Garces, ended in 2008 — largely because of his drinking.

"You know, I was shameful, and you do stuff that causes disgust, and that's hard to recover from."

Recently, a new bout of depression prompted the actor to enter rehab. His publicist, Mara Buxbaum, said at the time that Williams made the decision because he needed to recharge after working for 18 months straight. On Monday, the struggle ended. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

'Prince of Pot' back home

Marc Emery. Despite five-year U.S. prison sentence, pot advocate continues fight to legalize marijuana Canada's self-styled "Prince of Pot" returned to a raucous welcome from supporters in Windsor, Ont., Tuesday after serving his U.S. sentence for selling marijuana seeds, vowing to continue his activism even if it means more arrests.

Loud cheers and large clouds of pot smoke arose as Marc Emery, 56, arrived in the border city after completing his five-year sentence for selling marijuana seeds from Canada to American customers

Emery hugged his wife, Jodie Emery, who wants to run in next year's federal election for the Liberals — Leader Justin Trudeau supports legalizing marijuana — then launched into a long, pro-Liberal speech peppered with prison anecdotes.

"I do believe that they are sincere that they will legalize marijuana," Emery said.

"I know it's the most uncool thing in the world to have to say, especially to young people, that voting is the answer, but it is. It absolutely is."

Legalization of marijuana, which Emery said should include expunging the record of everyone ever convicted of a related offence, is the only issue in the next election that can have a profound impact on Canadians' lives, he said.

"Critics say, 'Well, Canadians are interested in far more important things," Emery said. "I say, 'What? What are you interested in? The economy? The environment? Health care? You can't do anything about that by voting. No vote's going to change that.'

"If we can get this Liberal majority government next year we'll never need to go to the polls to make marijuana legal ever again," he said.

T.O. top cop Blair files suit against Doug Ford

Toronto's police chief has filed a defamation notice against Mayor Rob Ford's brother for comments the city councillor made earlier this month.

Doug Ford suggested two weeks ago that Chief Bill Blair helped leak information that police were preparing to subpoena the mayor in an ongoing investigation as "payback," although he declined to elaborate on what he meant.

At the time, Blair said Ford was lying and warned he was prepared to take legal action.

On Aug. 1, the Toronto Star cited sources saying police were preparing to subpoena the mayor to testify at a preliminary hearing for his friend Alessandro (Sandro) Lisi, who is facing drug and extortion charges.

Doug Ford blamed the apparent leak on Blair, calling it politically motivated.

Egypt presents plan to end Gaza conflict: Palestinian officials

Deadline for current ceasefire looms.

Plan leaves room for negotiation later on

Egypt presented a proposed ceasefire to Israel and Hamas aimed at ending the monthlong war, Palestinian officials said early Wednesday after negotiators huddled for a second day of talks.

Palestinian officials told The Associated Press Wednesday that Egypt's proposal calls for an easing to parts of the Israeli blockade of Gaza. Key areas of disagreement, however, including the Islamic militant group Hamas' demand for a full lifting of the blockade and Israeli calls for Hamas to disarm, are left to later negotiations.

The Palestinian officials spoke to AP on condition of anonymity because they are not authorized to discuss the negotiations with the media.

One of the Palestinian officials who spoke to AP said that according to the Egyptian proposal, the blockade would be lifted gradually over time.

He said it would stipulate that Israel would end airstrikes on militants, and a 500-metre buffer zone next to the Gaza and Israel frontier would be reduced over time.

The Israeli and Palestinian negotiating teams retired after 10 hours of discussions and will resume the talks on Wednesday, the officials said. The current ceasefire is set to expire at midnight. It was not immediately clear if either side would accept the deal.

"The talks are difficult but

Aid must be delivered by Red Cross, Ukraine says

Russia dispatched hundreds of trucks covered in white tarps and sprinkled with holy water Tuesday on a mission to deliver aid to a rebel-held zone in eastern Ukraine.

The televised sight of the miles-long convoy sparked a show of indignation from the government in Kyiv, which insisted any aid must be delivered by the international Red Cross. Ukraine and the West have openly expressed concern that Moscow intends to use the cover of a humanitarian operation to embark on a military incursion in support of pro-Russia separatists.

Officials with both the International Committee of the Red Cross and Ukraine's government said they had no information about what the trucks were carrying or where they were headed. A Ukrainian security spokesman said the convoy was being managed by the Russian army and could not be allowed into the country. The government in Kyiv said the trucks could unload at the border and transfer the aid to ICRC vehicles. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Plant waters rule in grocery aisles

Why the new thirst?

Nutrition expert believes trend driven by interest in natural alternatives to soda

Coconut water, maple water, even birch and cactus waters.... A quick inventory of beverages in the produce section makes it clear — plant waters are rising.

Soda and non-fresh juice sales are flat or slipping slightly, but plant-based products like coconut water—along with other alternative beverages such as kombucha and tea-based drinks—are growing, particularly those sold alongside your fruits and veggies, according to data compiled by market research firm Nielsen.

Introduced several years ago, coconut water has been big for a while. Maple water is a newer entry and is essentially maple sap, the stuff that normally is boiled down to syrup. Brands include Vertical Water and SEVA. And that's not the only tree water on the market. There's also birch water and, on the plant side, cactus, barley and artichoke waters.

Sales of all waters, including the new products, "fitness" and enhanced waters, as well as regular sparkling and still, grew four per cent by value and nearly seven per cent by volume since July 2013.

Coconut water is not yet being tracked specifically, but totals for beverages in the produce department, which is where much coconut water is sold, showed doubledigit growth. The value jump

Discover Pyongyang

Toronto-born JT Singh teamed up with flow-motion videographer Rob Whitworth and tour operator Koryo Tours to provide a rather stunning look at a day in the life of Pyongyang, North Korea. Obviously, there are some extremely tight restrictions on filming in North Korea - even in the showcase capital — and the people involved in the project were dutifully watched over by guides employed by a shockingly cruel reign. But glimpses into North Korea are still very rare, especially ones so beautifully shot. (JT Singh/Vimeo)

Captain! My Captain!'

Shazbot. Remembering the wildly funny and outsized talent of Robin Williams who has us all standing on our desks

FOCUS

The first time I saw Robin Williams was on 90 Minutes Live with Peter Gzowski, a Canadian late-night talk show that aired from 1976 to 1978. Thirty five years later I can still remember the frantic burst of energy that emanated from my television late that Friday night.

Gzowski grinned as the comic careened through their chat, jumping from joke to joke, impression to impression, including Williams's take on the world's most intelligent child. "I find most adults very banal, but I'll talk to you, anyway.

"Where did you get that character from?" Gzowski asked, "Was it based on any-

"Me, basically. As a kid." "Were you brilliant as a

"Yes, and as a young man, too," replied the impish 27-year-old.

The standup comedians I had seen on television wore suits and told one-liners. This was stream of consciousness, a wild look at a comedic mind that didn't work the way I was accustomed to them working. For six minutes it felt like an alien had taken control of my TV, a life force like I had never seen before.

Appropriately enough, soon afterward he appeared as Mork, the E.T. from Ork, on Happy Days and his career was officially launched.

For the next 35 years, Williams was a constant on our screens, big and small. His first starring role in a movie, 1980's Popeye, was met with critical scorn and weak box office, but Roger Ebert had praise for the star, calling William's "perpetual squint and lopsided smile" completely convincing.

Moving from strength to strength he embarked on a remarkable run of films, earning the first of three Best Actor Oscar nods for Good Morning, Vietnam and winning an Academy Award for his work as an empathetic therapist in Good Will Hunting. A handful of Golden Globes celebrated his work in Good Morning, Vietnam, The Fisher King and Mrs. Doubtfire.

He leaves behind a diverse legacy from the laughs of The Birdcage to the drama of Awakenings to the chills of One Hour Photo, the seizethe-day uplift of Dead Poets Society and the ad-libbed brilliance of Aladdin. Every decade since that appearance on 90 Minutes Live has given us a memorable Williams performance, and he will live, on the screen at least, with three more films scheduled for release this year and next.

Everyone has a favourite Robin Williams character. For me its Parry, the treasure hunter in The Fisher King. It's a funny, bittersweet performance in a movie that mixes fantasy and reality in equal doses. "I'm a knight on a special quest," Parry says, words that could apply to Williams's crusade to entertain in weird and wonderful ways.

As head Expendable, Sylvester Stallone has never been one for too much humility, and given the success of his Grumpy Old Men with Guns franchise, he has no need to be. That can lead to some pretty impressive statements from Sly. Here are some of our favourites from his Expendables 3 press tour.

On whether he has considered retirement

"Why? I'm not ready to sit at home and play with Pomeranians 12 hours a day," he insists. "I'm just not ready. Remember in old Vaudeville, there was a cane that came out and snatched you off the stage? Well, I'm waiting for that. Until they just hook me off the stage, that's it."

On working with new, younger cast members

"I remember the first time

I came out here. I was like these guys," Stallone ruminates. "I get on the elevator and there's Paul Newman. And you're not prepared for it. You think you're prepared for it. And then you wonder if they feel the same way about us. I'm sure they do."

On the departure of Bruce Willis from the franchise

"What happened with Bruce Willis? Well, things didn't work out and then Harrison Ford came along," Stallone explains. "It's just the way it is. It's nothing personal. It sounded like it got personal and I'm sorry it did sound that way, but it was just actors talking and things move on."

On opening opposite Sin City: a Dame to Kill For, which features Willis

"Oh, Sin City?" Stallone laughs. "I must crush you."

On aging in general

"Age is a state of 'old' mind. It gets to a point where if you get old enough you forget how old you are, and that's the best thing," he says. "You walk around, kind of like in a fog. So you really don't know how old you are until you find yourself watching The Teletubbies drunk one night and you're like, 'I'm really f—ed up.'

Invest in livelihood of less fortunate

Before most of us learned to talk, we learned to share. It's a lesson we learned from parents at home, teachers in the classroom, and friends on the playground. Now that we are grown up, we are in charge of our own assets, yet so many organizations want our money. It can be time-consuming and confusing to figure out who will do the most with what we give.

To a responsible citizen with a desire to change the world, knowing how to give effectively matters. Shine Dental wants you to feel confident in knowing that a portion of the money you spend is being reinvested into its Shine The Light Initiative. The organization assists people in impoverished countries who are facing immense challenges in their lives. Dr. Brent Wong has personally been on more than 25 trips since 2005.

"Ashton will not accept this and refuses to see her in pain."

There will be no Roman for disgraced Polanski

Roman Polanski has elected to sit out this week's Locarno Film Festival in Switzerland, where he was set to receive a lifetime achievement award, present his latest film and teach a master class on directing. The decision comes after Polanski's planned attendance sparked outrage from those still calling for the Chinatown director's return to the U.S. to face 40-year-old statutory rape charges. "It is with a heavy heart that I must cancel my visit," Polanski said in a statement. Festival organizers, for their part, called the protests to Polanski's inclusion "unacceptable interference of some in the artistic liberty of the festival."

Atlantic City takes a swing at golf

Beyond casinos.

Luring players to the town's links is all part of a $30-million plan to showcase all this destination has to offer

KENDALL diangolftraveller.com

Atlantic City is doubling down on golf.

Back when casinos along the famous Boardwalk were booming, the 20 public courses on this stretch of the south New Jersey coast went almost unnoticed. But the recession and stiff competition from dozens of new casinos throughout the U.S. northeast have slashed revenues and changed the city's tourism focus.

Golf and other non-gaming attractions such as shopping, dining, concerts and amusement parks are being heavily promoted as part of a $30-million 'DO AC' campaign.

The game's local roots date to the 1887 opening of the Atlantic City Country Club, which still ranks as the area's marquee course. Native grasses and tidal marshes define a classic layout originally designed by Willie Park Jr., the British Open champion in 1887 and 1889.

Six USGA championships have been played here, but the club's real claim to fame is as the birthplace of the golf term "birdie" in 1903. Frequent celebrity visitors have included Bob Hope, boxing champion Joe Louis and Arnold Palmer, who made it his home course while serving nearby in the Coast Guard in the 1950s.

Other top layouts within an easy drive of Atlantic City include Twisted Dune Golf Club, Shore Gate Golf Club, McCullough's Emerald Golf Links, Harbor Pines Golf Club, Sand Barrens Golf Club, Running Deer Golf Club and Blue Heron Pines Golf Club.

At the Vineyards, golfers play through the grounds of Renault Winery, established in 1864 and one of the oldest wineries in the United States.

And the fairways of Seaview Golf Resort's venerable Bay Course — the host of the LPGA Tour's ShopRite Classic and where Sam Snead

Championship — offer views across Reeds Bay of the casino towers of a city in transition.

New Jersey Governor Chris Christie has made revitalizing Atlantic City a key priority of his administration. New parks, art installations and landscaping have been added throughout the downtown area, Family-friendly options range from minigolf and paintball to the Atlantic City Aquarium. But a longtime local favourite is Steel Pier, an amusement park that juts into the ocean from the boardwalk and has more than 25 extreme rides. Opened in 1898, the park is undergoing a $100-million makeover.

and the Boardwalk has been cleaned up and opened up by the casinos, some of which once tried to restrict access to the waterfront to keep customers inside.

Opened in 2012, splashy highrise Revel Casino Hotel has dramatically altered the Atlantic City skyline. The $2.4-billion resort is home to a Las Vegas-style concert space featuring headliners such as Dionne Warwick, the Barenaked Ladies and Natalie Cole.

Gaming industry giant Golden Nugget Inc. has taken over management of the former Trump Marina Hotel Casino, pouring $150 million into renovations. And Caesars Entertainment Corp. is investing $150 million in a meeting and conference facility at its Harrah's Atlantic City location.

But perhaps the best news – apart from the new focus on golf, of course — was the return last September of the Miss America pageant after six years in archrival Las Vegas. The pageant, a local institution since 1920, is regarded as an important showcase for the recent civic improvements.

The odds on Atlantic City's recovery are looking better

On a skewer, in a bun, or dipped — it's up to you

Pack a picnic. Metro's week of helping you to dine outdoors continues with this very versatile take on Ground Beef Kabobs

DINNER FXPRFSS

Enjoy a fun picnic dinner with your family by making it less fussy and more simple to put together.

Using a few basic ingredients you can take something that's old and tired, and change it up to become a new picnic favourite.

These kabobs are made with ground beef, but you can use any ground meat your family enjoys, including ground turkey, chicken, pork or veal.

Ingredients

- 454 g (1 lb) extra lean ground
- 45 ml (3 tbsp) chopped fresh coriander or parsley
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 2 ml (1/2 tsp) ground cumin

FLASH FOOD

If you are feeling a bit adventurous look for lean ground bison in local butchers to shake up your picnic recipe.

Get your kids to help out and shape the kabobs.

Whether they are served hot-dog style in a bun or straight up as meatballs, the best part is dipping them!

My kids like to leave the bun behind and dip in sauces or condiments you may already have.

Pick up mini potatoes, steam or boil them for about eight minutes just until they are tender, then put them on a kabob as

You can also roll the mixture into 24 meatballs and skewer onto small soaked wooden or metal skewers alternating with 18 grape tomatoes.

Other veggies that work well include two small zucchini, cut in chunks or 18 small gourmet button mushrooms. Either way, cook the kabobs as the recipe directs.

Kids and adults alike will love the versatility and simplicity of this recipe.

And don't forget dessert. With some fruit and perhaps a few marshmallows you can skewer up a sweet treat for the family.

Be sure to have some chocolate nearby if you want to dip into something a bit more sweet. Caramel, hot fudge or strawberry sauces will also match up perfectly.

- 1. In large bowl combine beef, coriander, garlic, Worcestershire sauce, and pepper until well distributed.
- 2. Divide mixture into 6 and shape each into about a 10-cm (4-inch) hot-dog shape. Place on foil-lined baking sheet and bake in 190 C (375 F) oven for about 15 minutes or until no longer pink inside.
- 3. Place in small hot dog buns and wrap up to go.
- 5 ml (1 tsp) Worcestershire
- 1 ml (1/4 tsp) freshly ground pepper
- 8 small whole wheat hot dog

Acing the social media sit-down

Ready to be recruited.

Prepare for the points that are bound to be a part of this industry's interview

LAUREN MARINIGH

Social media is a field with a lot to offer a recent grad or new professional..

While you may already have extensive skills using different social media platforms in your personal life, don't assume you can do well in an interview just by showing up. Every organization has different goals and expectations of their social media presence, so it's impossible to predict exactly what kinds of questions you'll encounter in an interview.

However, there are a number of common topics that are almost certain to come up when you're interviewing for a role that involves social media. Planning to discuss these areas of your experience is a great way to get your interview prep started.

Your experience with different platforms

To be the in-house expert on social media, you'll need to demonstrate extensive knowledge of common platforms — and the skills to pick up new ones as needed.

Interviewers will often ask questions that pertain specifically to one platform or another, even posing specific scenarios related to social media use. Personal use of social media is very different from business social media use. Make sure you research and understand the strategy involved with each platform, and be prepared to apply your knowledge to the employer's questions.

Tip: Your future employer has probably checked out your social media footprint. If there are major platforms you don't use very often (or at all), make sure to indicate why - and show that you still understand their role and effective use.

Your understanding of analytics

Providing concrete results matters in every role, and social media is no exception.

To show an employer that you're equipped for the job, you'll need to demonstrate that you know how to measure results, use different metrics to draw conclusions and make recommendations based on data.

When you discuss a specific situation, project or campaign that you handled in the past, don't just describe your ideas or how entertaining they were — highlight how you used data to guide your decisions and measure your success.

In your personal life, you probably don't use data to guide your social media use. In the professional world,

Analyze the company's current social media presence and

- Often applicants get so caught up in researching everything there is to know about the company that they forget this simple step.
- Interviewers will usually want proof you can improve their social media presence, as well as evidence of your genuine interest in the job opportunity at hand.
- Careful preparation can make the (somewhat sensitive) topic of improving their social media presence less challenging to address, and a great answer can make a significant impression understanding the numbers will back up that you know what you're doing.

Tip: Start by pointing out things that the company is doing well, then add suggestions that would build on this success or complement their current strategy.

Tip: Bring examples of campaigns or posts you have published in the past and the results they garnered (make sure to have some kind of comparison or benchmark).

Your writing skills

Some interviewers will ask you to complete an onsite writing test, or request a writing sample as part of the screening process.

The ability to function under pressure is a key social media skill, so you'll need to be ready to produce polished work on the spot.

Make a strong impression during your interview by bringing some relevant writing samples you can provide as needed. If your work has been published online, this is a great way to underscore your past experience and

If you don't have any published work online, starting a blog or personal website to showcase your writing is a great way to get started.

Tip: An organization's social media profiles will use specific language, phrasing and tone. Make sure you understand these features and can replicate them with

You're only a college or university student for a few short years, then you are sent off into the wonderful world of work, work and more work.

Many students get so caught up in post-secondary education that they focus solely on classes and assignments, forgetting that this is a prime time to gain valuable experience that may help you land a job after graduation.

Why should you get involved? It's a great way to meet new people, network, and build your resumé. Here are some of the best ways to get involved on campus, wherever you are.

Tip: A little intimidated? Make a list of some general goals you'd like your career centre to help you with. Then look for resources that match your interests.

Participate in clubs or associations

This is the best way for you to start getting involved, particularly if you're a new student (or a little reluctant to put yourself out there).

Finding a club that matches your interests or hobbies is a great way to meet new people and explore a personal passion.

Over time, you can move into a leadership role with your club, which can involve managing finances, organizing events and other activities that you can use as relevant professional experience when you're looking to land a job.

Tip: Can't find a club or group that interests you? Start your own. That's a great way to demonstrate initiative and leadership.

Ray finished 26-of-33 passing for 297 yards to earn Toronto (3-4) its second straight win for a four-point lead atop the East Division standings.

But the Argos don't have much time to relish the victory, before an announced seasonhigh Rogers Centre gathering of 18,106, as they're back in action Sunday night hosting the B.C. Lions (4-3).

It was sweet redemption for Toronto, which dropped a season-opening 45-21 loss in Winnipeg. And Ray engineered the impressive victory without regular receivers Andre Durie (clavicle), Chad Owens (foot), Jason Barnes (knee), John Chiles (hamstring) and heralded rookie Anthony Coombs O'Shea spent 16 seasons as a player and coach with Toronto — winning four Grey Cups - before being hired by Winnipeg in the off-season.

Ray cemented the victory with a 32-yard touchdown pass to Spencer Watt that rounded out the scoring at 11:35 of the fourth. Ray put Toronto ahead 28-21 just 58 seconds into the quarter with a 15-yard touchdown pass to Curtis Steele after Cleyon Laing recovered former Argo Romby Bryant's fumble at the Winnipeg 49yard line.

Death of Kevin Ward Jr.

Stewart not yet in clear despite no criminal intent

Tony Stewart could still face criminal charges for running down Kevin Ward Jr. with his sprint car, even if the three-time NASCAR champion didn't mean to kill Ward, hurt him or even scare him.

Initial findings of the investigation have turned up nothing that would indicate criminal intent in the crash, but legal experts agree that does not mean Stewart is in the clear.

Stewart could be charged with second-degree manslaughter under New York law if prosecutors believe he "recklessly caused the death of another person," with negligent homicide another possibility, according to criminal law professor Corey Rayburn Yung of the Kansas University School of Law.

Encarnacion poised to return to flock

MLB. Blue Jays could be days away from getting slugger back from quad injury

With one sweet swing, Edwin Encarnacion showed the Toronto Blue Jays what they hope to be getting back soon.

After missing more than a month with a strained right quadriceps muscle, Encarnacion is close to rejoining the Blue Jays in the middle of their playoff chase. Now on a minor-league rehab stint with the triple-A Buffalo Bisons, Encarnacion is one step away, and on Tuesday night he showed evidence of his progress by hitting a first-pitch, no-doubt grand slam.

Encarnacion, who led off as the designated hitter, went 1 for 4 with the grand slam, a fly out, a pop up and a ground "It's not necessarily what he does here, it's what he does when he gets back to Toronto, and they obviously need him," Bisons manager Gary Allenson said before the game. "It's obviously a bat that they can't wait to get back in the lineup."

The plan is for Encarnacion to play two more games with the Bisons before meeting up with the Blue Jays on Friday in Chicago. Despite missing the past month, the 31-year-old still leads the team in home runs (26) and trails only Jose Bautista in runs batted in (70).

After taking his cuts in indoor batting practice, Encarnacion's first contact of the game was a fly out to left. But his second showed off the right-handed power stroke the Blue Jays could desperately use.

With the bases loaded in the second inning, Encarnacion saw a first-pitch fastball from Norfolk Tides starter Steve Johnson and smacked it over the left-field fence. That

The Toronto Blue Jays have activated Adam Lind off the 15-day disabled list and immediately placed him in the lineup against Seattle on Tuesday night.

certainly validated his pregame confidence. "I feel great," Encarnacion

"I feel great," Encarnacion said on the Bisons' radio broadcast. "I'm just trying to get my timing back and get ready here for getting back to the big leagues and to my team." THE CANADIAN PRESS

2015 Nissan Leaf

- Type: Five-door, front-wheel-drive compact hatchback
- Engine: 80 kW AC electric motor with 24 kW Lithiumion battery (equivalent to
- Transmission: Automatic (single-speed gear reducer)
- Base price: $33,788

Market position

Designed to be an EV for both early adopters and mainstream compact car buyers. Unlike its competitors, the Leaf was designed from the ground up as an EV. It is now the global leader in EV sales, with a 45-per-cent market share.

Points

- Maximum range of 135 km on a full charge
- Eight-year/160,000-km battery warranty
- Some provincial subsidies available for EV purchase
- Charge time (zero to full) takes 20 hours at 110 volts,
- 4 hours at 220 volts
- Drives and feels like a conventional compact

Safety features

Six airbags, ABS, traction and stability control, tire-pressure monitoring system, anti-theft engine immobilizer, rear-view monitor, available 360-degree monitor.

GOETZ

A lot of folks, on both sides of the consumer/automaker fence, don't think this electric-vehicle thing has legs. Many automakers are sending mixed messages. Toyota has even announced that it's done selling pure EVs.

But you know what? New models keep showing up. The number of people buying and considering them is rising. And EVs remain one surefire way for automakers to achieve the very strict fuelefficiency regulations coming down the pike in the U.S.

Net result: EVs have put down serious roots. So it's time to think of them as less of a novelty and more as just another alternative that may or may not fit your lifestyle.

When it launched the Leaf in 2011, Nissan went out of its way to make non-believers comfortable, with a modern

Along the way, the company added a new, lowerpriced base model and reduced prices across the board by $3,000. It also gave the Leaf a faster charger, which reduced 220-volt charge time traction, but Nissan has now sold more than 125,000 Leafs around the world and is on pace to sell about 100 a month in Canada, where Quebec is the best market by far. Alberta? Not so much.

While recently testing a 2015 model, I was again reminded how normal this car feels. The only thing that separates it from similar gaspowered hatchbacks is its silent running and above-average acceleration. The electric motor offers the equivalent of 107 horsepower, but the instant and full torque of electric propulsion translates into good jump whenever you hammer the go-pedal.

Leaf drivers can even use the Internet or a smartphone to control air conditioning, set charging functions, and access data like the charge status of their rides. Like the Leaf itself, it's the future.

Horoscopes by Sally Brompton

↑ Aries

March 21 - April 20

When talking with others today steer clear of emotional and controversial topics. The more people get worked up about what they believe, the more you should keep your distance.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21 If you find yourself torn between loved ones and work today the best thing to do is to make a decision and stick to it. You can't please everyone.

∐ Gemini May 22 - June 21

The planets will help you make the break you have been dreaming of, the effort must come from you. If you don't make that move now, when will you make it?

9 Cancer June 22 - July 23

You may lose your temper with someone who lets you down and they deserve it. Don't feel guilty if you go over the top because that seems to be the only language they understand.

Ω Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

Disruption is likely but the good news is you'll have the energy you need to deal with it. Stop feeling sorry for yourself and start making things happen.

M Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23 Don't worry if you fall out with someone, because you'll be friends again before you know

it. Everything seems more important than it actually is.

△ Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

You are unlikely to be tactful with people whose views and opinions you disagree with but that's OK because you are as entitled to your viewpoint as they are to theirs.

M Scorpio Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

You have a rep for keeping your head in difficult situations and it's a reputation that will be called on today. Whatever it is that excites other people, it won't move you in the slightest.

7¹ Sagittarius Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

A crisis has almost reached breaking point and what happens today and tomorrow will take it over the top. If a relationship is on the slide don't waste time trying to save it.

り Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

You will clash with someone over money today. Your instinct will be to fight to get back what is yours but after a while you may come to the conclusion that it's not worth the effort.

≫ Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

Others may be rushing around but you don't have to follow their lead. It's meaningless activity, designed to make lazy people look busy. Stay focused.

H Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

Some things are worth fighting about, others aren't. Over the next few days get serious about where you draw the line.
